MARCH 2018

President's Greeting

Maureen Kelly, M.D.
President

Spring has arrived!

Along with the milder temperatures and longer daylight, we welcome Anne Steiner, MD, MPH as our speaker on April 19, 2018. The topic of conversation that evening will be "Ovarian Aging and Fertility". Dr. Steiner is a Professor in the Division of Reproductive Endocrinology and Infertility at the University of North Carolina and recently published the timely article, Association Between Biomarkers of Ovarian Reserve and Infertility Among Older Women of Reproductive Age in JAMA.

Our meeting will be held at the engaging National Liberty Museum located at 321 Chestnut Street. The museum is "dedicated to preserving America's heritage of freedom" and opens its galleries to us during the evening.

The Luigi Mastroianni Award for Research in Reproductive Endocrinology will be awarded at the April meeting. If you have not already done so, please encourage your medical students, residents and fellows to submit an original manuscript by the April 1st deadline.

PARES events this year have focused on aging from the micro perspective - mitochondria and cellular aging and sperm and DNA fragmentation- to the macro perspective - the history of ACOG. Please join us for our final evening as we complete this journey with attention to aging and the ovary.

It has been a pleasure to serve as President of PARES this year. I know that this society's remarkable history could only have developed through the dedication of its members and will continue to provide a meaningful forum for discussion within our ever advancing specialty.

Looking forward to seeing you on April 19th!

Warmly,
Maureen

CALL FOR PAPERS

PARES Research Award

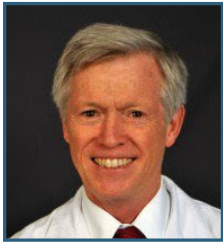

The Luigi Mastroianni Research Award was established by P.A.R.E.S. to recognize excellence in research in the discipline of reproductive endocrinology. The award is open to all current medical students, obstetrics and gynecology residents and reproductive endocrinology fellows in programs associated with the Philadelphia Reproductive Endocrine Society. Original research manuscripts not published prior to January 15, 2018 will be accepted for review. The medical student, resident or fellow must be the first author of the paper. It is expected that the medical student, resident or fellow will have primary responsibility for the literature review, implementation of the study and final drafting of the discussion section. Review articles will not be accepted. Papers should be written in a scientific format to include title, authors, institution, abstract, introduction, materials and methods, results, and discussion and should confirm with the instructions for the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Two copies should be submitted. Both should be saved under the article's title. One copy should have all institution and author information removed. The award and stipend of $500 will be conferred at the P.A.R.E.S. meeting on April 19, 2018. The author of the winning paper will be asked to present a brief summary of his/her work at that time.

Manuscripts must be received no later than March 30, 2018, to allow adequate time for review. Any manuscripts received after March 30, 2018 are ineligible for consideration.
